Route & Find

KMA is a premium bike tour operator that uses bike riding not just as a means of transportation but as a 'tool for designing experiences,' based on Korea's unique mobility culture.

Lane by Lane

KMA comes from the Korean word 'gossak,' embodying the philosophy of discovering Korea's true face in small paths. We design these streets, infused with local life and emotions, as Lane by Lane, transforming travelers into 'experiencers.'

Where Distance Shapes Meaning

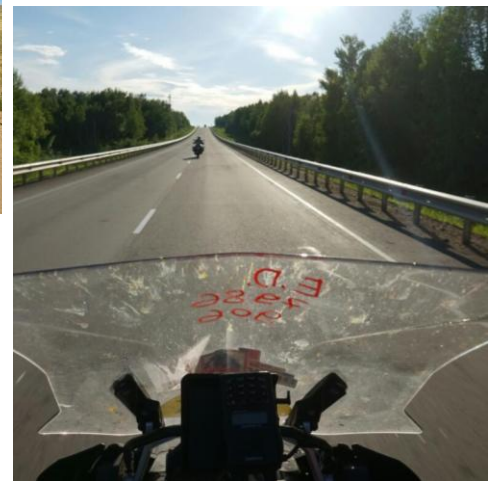

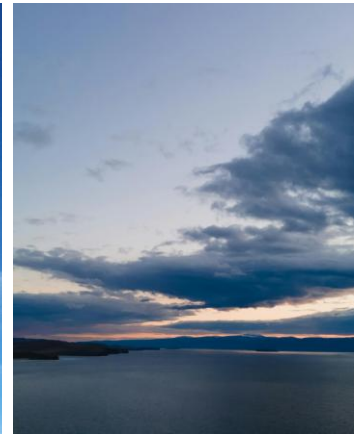

Siberia is a continent with no end in sight. The road that begins in Vladivostok erases the distances between cities, leading to increasingly wide and empty landscapes.

Driving through birch forests and endless roads, getting around transforms from a simple means into a process of experiencing the 'street.'

This journey is not about heading toward a destination, but about crossing a vast continent directly, allowing you to physically understand its scale.

Across Siberia, distance becomes the experience itself. Endless roads, vast forests, and open land reshape how riders perceive scale, turning the journey into a direct encounter with the immensity of the continent.

3. Reaching the Blue Heart

Riding Through Pure Isolation

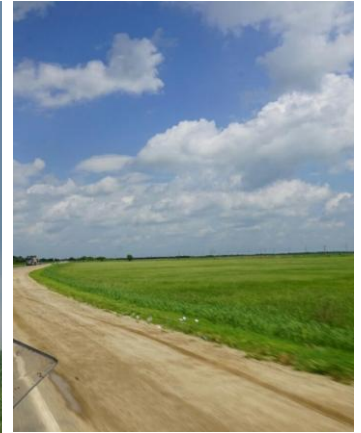

The Siberian roads are tranquil. On roads with few human footprints, riding becomes increasingly inward.

The endless straight lines and long driving sections reveal your senses even more clearly than the external scenery. In this segment, where you experience the essence of adventure rallies, your stamina, focus, and willpower will be thoroughly tested.

This path is not just a journey, but a journey to confront yourself in an isolated environment.

On Siberia's silent roads, isolation defines the ride. Long stretches of emptiness shift focus inward, where endurance and concentration matter most, transforming the journey into a personal test of will.

Where the Journey Finds Meaning

After racing across the vast Siberia, we face Baikal,

This is the reason and the deepest reward of this journey.

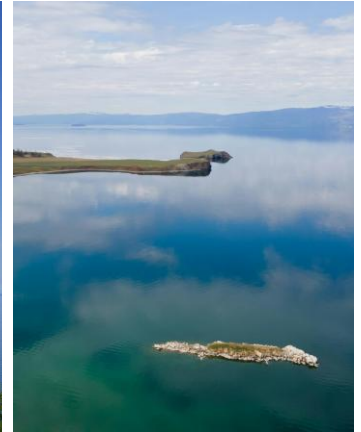

Baikal, the oldest and deepest lake on Earth, creates a complete landscape in its own right.

The blue waters here are only reached after long hours and distances, connecting every journey and leaving a deep impression.

At this moment, riding transcends mere movement into a memorable experience.

At the end of the journey, Lake Baikal reveals its depth and stillness. After crossing vast distances, its blue expanse becomes more than a destination—offering a profound sense of completion and meaning.

Local Immersion

Food Culture

Siberia's food culture has been shaped more closely to survival and the environment than to glamour. Russian meals encountered during long journeys convey simple yet rich energy, reflecting the local climate and lifestyle as they are. The meals on this journey go beyond gourmet cuisine to tune into the rhythm of the continent.

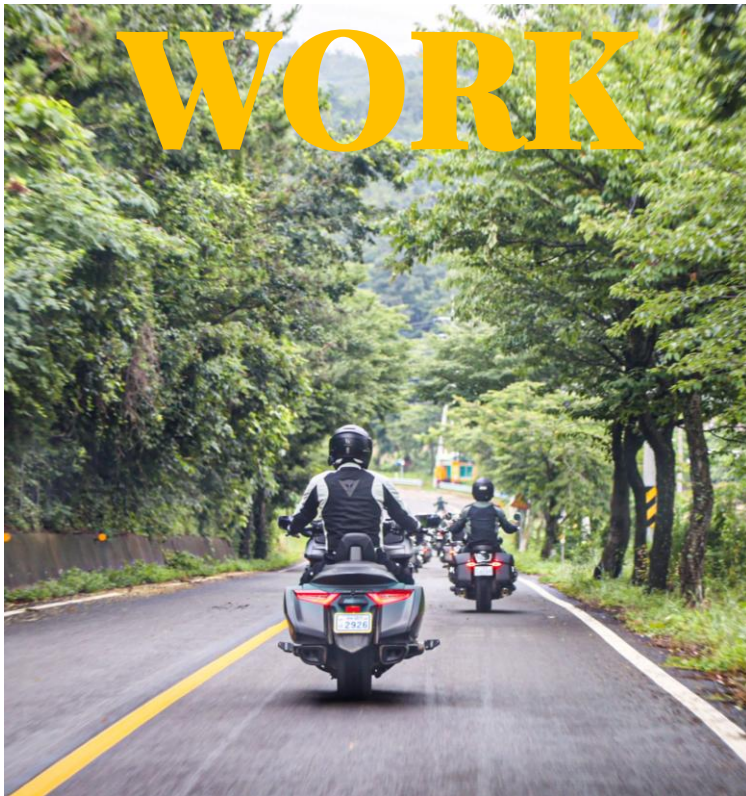

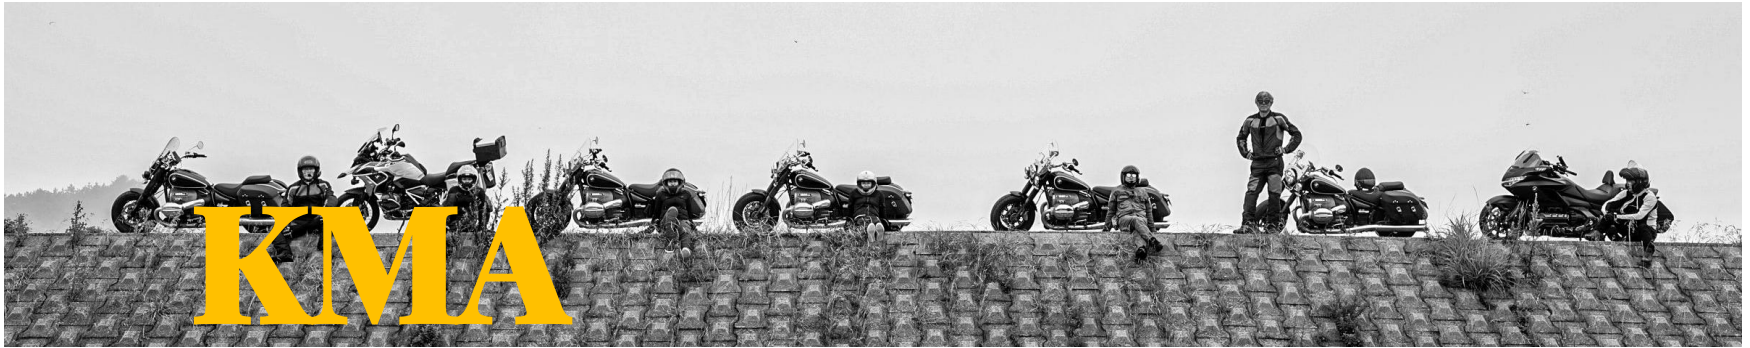

Acomodation

Accommodations are placed within a realistic flow of movement rather than comfort. Staying in cities and mid-point hubs forms the foundation that sustains long journeys, helping you unwind from the day's fatigue and prepare for the next leg.

Cultural touchpoint

Siberian culture is revealed more between the journeys than the tourist spots. Passing through Koryosaram villages, Far Eastern cities, and the Buryatia region, different histories and cultures connect, and as you travel, you naturally encounter their unique flavors. This experience is completed through passing through, not just by viewing.

Ride with Confidence

KMA's core value is 'operations that show trust.' Loadmaster Kyungsoo Park, who has extensive field experience, has personally planned, toured, and operated the site, along with in-house equipment and mechanical systems, making every journey more sophisticated and building trust and professionalism.
